

PAHOKEE 26, BELLE GLADE 12; DEVILS WIN TWO-BARREL VICTORY

The Pahokee Blue Devils brought Suncoast League honors and the Lions' Bill Young Memorial Trophy home for a double-barreled triumph in the Thanksgiving Eve game at Lair Field in Pahokee Wednesday night.

Star Halfback Hal Rosenberg tore over four times with the all-important touchdowns, and had nothing but stellar support doing it as the Devils wound up the season in a burst of glory.

The Belle Glade Golden Rams, with Guard Eddie Robinson and Center Back Jones both casualties during the game, had Fullback Walt Mosley and Left End J. F. Wilcher on the ball with the ball for the two Ram TDs.

Coach Calvin Peacock's Rams were by no means overran, and had the offensive game they played in the fourth quarter been in effect the first three quarters, the score would have been much closer. Rosenberg's third quarter sprint for 63 yards was the highlight of the game, as the winged-footed Canal Point ace took off in one of his runs that have become Suncoast legend.

QB George Mills, HBs John Williams and Jerry Roberts, Center Jimmy Hoyle, Tackles Tom and Ronnie Elliott, and Joe Parker and End Don Waddell were other Devil seniors playing their last game as sparkling cogs in Coach Webb Pell's championship team. Mills and Waddell were responsible for the extra points.

Following the game, Master of Ceremonies Rupert Mock, of Pahokee, presented the Young Memorial Trophy to Belle Glade Lions President Buddy Schoenfeld who in turn presented it to Pahokee Lions President Ralph O. Johnson.

Then the coveted Lion cup was given by Johnson to Pell, Captains Rosenberg, Mills, and Hoyle for the team, and Principal Clyde Canipe for the Devils' 1954 victory over the Rams. Each team has now won the trophy six times, with Pahokee retaining it this year.

The big Thanksgiving celebration ended as the Blue Devils hoisted their cage coach to their shoulders and bore him off the field.

Math Is Pahokee Problem

PAHOKEE—A mathematical evening was had by all at City Hall Monday night, when Pahokee Councilmen F. S. Parron, James Harty Wilkinson, Jr., and Loren Meredith considered costs, savings, and expenditures for everything from a loading ramp site to a new traffic light.

Orange State Oil Co. was awarded the contract to furnish the city's supply of oil and gas for the 10 months remaining in this fiscal year, nosing out Glades Oil Co.'s bid of 22.5 cents per gallon of tankwagon gasoline by a fraction. Other bidders were Texas Oil Co., Sinclair Refining Co., and Shaw Bros. Oil Co.

Then Council heard the proposal of R. O. Crosby that he would dedicate a tract 200 x 170 ft. south of East Lake elementary school to the city in exchange for paying $3,399 lineal feet of 20-ft. streets in the vicinity.

The site would be used to build the proposed city hall loading ramp, facing Rardin Ave. After considerable discussion and figuring at current street construction costs, Council decided to take the matter under advisement, and to consult the farmer-contractor loading zone committee as to their opinions of the site.

Belle Glade, Pahokee Subdivision Okayed

Most of the residential development in Palm Beach County in recent years has been confined to the coastal areas but the Glades made another mark in sub-division development this week.

The county commission Monday approved a number of subdivision plats, among them Lake Shore subdivision in Belle Glade and Ridgecrest Gardens in Pahokee.

WAYS, MEANS S. BAY STUDY

SOUTH BAY Ways and means of financing a new water tower tank and an extensive street building program were the subject of the regular commission meeting here Monday evening.

With Mayor S. J. Fisher presiding, Commissioners W. C. Allen, W. M. Jeffries and F. W. Kelley heard Commissioner I. P. Roberts say that "Every dime spent by the community must buy 10 cents worth of community good."

This comment was in reference to negotiations under way to obtain funds for civic improvements from several investment houses interested in raising funds.

Lower Fire Rates
Believing that the public will benefit from lower fire insurance rates, commissioners are interested in a tower tank which will meet underwriters' specifications and thus afford a premium saving to city residents.

The Commission felt that residents would not be favorably disposed to vote for a civic improvement program unless the benefit in savings to them was carefully explained. The saving on insurance premiums paid by householders would likely be greater than the tax cost of such a project, the Commission felt.

In other action the Commission rectified a city error in the tax payment of John Reddick and referred to City Attorney Claude Jones for tax adjustment due to her homesteaded exemption certificate not having been forwarded to city clerk.

Cane Disease Is Studied

CANAL POINT—Extensive studies on ratoon stunting disease in sugar cane varieties is being conducted here, according to B. A. Belcher, agronomist, Sugar Plant Field Station.

Dr. Rene Steh, research pathologist, Louisiana State Agricultural Experiment Station; Dr. Charles A. Schenay, research pathologist; and Ernest J. Domaguer, scientific aide, USDA, are on temporary duty, making special studies under way at Canal Point.

Extensive field experiments are being carried out with numerous sugar cane varieties to determine their susceptibility or resistance to the disease. Belcher said it is hoped that through the studies under way at Canal Point, in Louisiana and in other parts of the world; especially Australia, that new varieties resistant to the disease can be selected for commercial cultivation, Belcher explained.

More Doctors Are Expected

CANAL POINT—Public pressure and actions of the various civic clubs of Canal Point and Pahokee, expressing concern over the shortage of active doctors in this section, apparently had concrete results this week.

Two new doctors are expected here after the new year, to occupy the medical offices in the Barad Bldg., according to Arnold Barad, pharmacist.

The first doctor is expected to arrive about Jan. 20, Barad said. The Chamber of Commerce and numerous civic clubs have expressed concern for many months over the shortage of physicians in the Pahokee-Canal Point area.

The expected physicians, to serve on an independent, full-time basis, will have no clinic connections, and will work in close cooperation with physicians now in the community, Barad indicated.

BOXCAR FIRE AT HULL PLANT

PAHOKEE—A smoldering fire burned a three foot hole in the inner wall of a refrigerator case spotted at Hull's Packing House Monday night at 11:50. Pahokee volunteer firemen were on their way to the fire before the siren stopped moving, according to Fire Chief Marvin Levins. The fire is thought to have resulted from a carelessly thrown cigarette igniting insulating material in the car, Levins reported.

Gehrkens said that as Christmas draws near, the schedule may have to be changed somewhat during the last-minute rush. He said the result of the first mass registration last week at Everglades Camp was extremely satisfactory.

PAHOKEE—Members of the junior choir of First Methodist Church, of which W. A. Slaughter is director, have made plans to carol through the city during the holidays.

BG Mgr. Won't Quit

BELLE GLADE—Saying, "I won't resign, they'll have to fire me," City Manager Tom Carle reported results of meeting between him and Mayor Harold Rabin and the city commissioners to the Observer this week.

Mayor Rabin had a "no comment" for the press as did Commissioners Walter Ashley, Zack Ingram, Herman Close, and H. O. Carlton, when the closed door meeting, held in Carle's office after the regular commission meeting concluded at 11:30 p.m.

Resignation Asked
Carle said that his resignation was asked for by Mayor Rabin "in the best interest of the city" and that he would be given a month's pay. No charges were brought against him, Carle said.

Saying that he intends to force a public hearing, Carle intends to be heard before a group to include the civil service board, although his position is not under civil service, he said.

When asked what he was going to do, Carle said that he would continue to perform his duties as city manager, that he would not resign, and that the commission would have to fire him in order to remove him from office.

Inquiry shows that the city charter provides for a city manager but does not make provision for nor define the duties of that officer. Removal of Carle either by resignation or firing (Continued on Page 8)

BI-PARTISAN ACTS PRAISED

PAHOKEE—Stating that "Any bill good for America deserves bi-partisan support in Congress," Rep. Duane L. Rogers received a round of applause from Lions and Rotarians at their joint meeting Tuesday.

Rogers, a Congressman from the Sixth Congressional District for 10 years, reviewed the work of the 83rd session. In his report on legislation he stressed the financial, moral and even spiritual benefit received by all Americans from the $200 billion passed in the Congress.

Of special interest to the Glades is the overall approval of Congress of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control bill including perimeter changes which will benefit many additional farmers at an added cost of $7,000,000, Rogers said. Of the $43,000,000 now authorized, Rogers pointed out that $24,000,000 have been spent and when expenditures catch up to appropriations additional money will be needed.

Part Way There

The Belle Glade and Pahokee Housing Authorities can take a deep bow for the tribute paid them Sunday in the Tampa Tribune as shining examples of migrant housing.

That is the kind of good and deserved publicity the Glades needs.

At the same time it should make every community in the Glades conscious that there is still a lot to be done to provide better housing, for permanent residents as well as seasonal occupants.

The move toward stricter zoning and building regulations in Belle Glade and Pahokee is a good start, and perhaps one day the area will also have county zoning worthy of the name.

Meantime, there is still a long way to go.

ED. NOTE: WHEN OBSERVER Reader Valerie Vondermuhl, of New York City, wrote of plans for a world-circling vacation, we asked her to record some of her interesting experiences in whatever mailbox she found. What the mail brought this week follows.

By VALERIE VONDERMUHL

Cairo, Egypt
 Most of the trip so far we have seen lots of interesting countryside and handsome buildings. Only rarely has the scenery been really beautiful. Exceptions before we reached Pakistan were Sydney and Hong Kong harbors, part of the Australian coast and the tea plantations of Ceylon in the early morning sun.

In the Pakistan state of Swat and the hill station Nathia Gali for the first time we saw land beautiful itself, where man's contributions were minor.

Swat is about 60 miles north of our main base of Raisalpur beyond a mountain range. The scenery we saw is the valley of the Swat river, a 3,000 foot high fertile region surrounded by hills and mountains rising 6-7,000 feet, and in the distance are high snow covered mountains reaching 15,000 feet.

The Swat river is a clear swift stream that is extensively used for irrigation and also provides excellent fishing. We are not quite sure what kind of fish but one excellent small variety was served to us for dinner and we heard that the angler caught 200 pounds in one day. The largest fish in the catch weighed 62 pounds.

Intense Cultivation
 Every inch of the flatter sections of the valley is intensively cultivated in the various crops, barley as well as citrus orchards. The roads are for the most part lined with trees and crops ready for harvest and the suggestion of frost added tinges of yellow and gold to the lush green.

We had quite an argument about what part of the world all this reminded us of. Not as dramatic as Switzerland, more manicured than parts of Montana, a bit wilder than some Vermont valleys — but we all agreed that Swat was enchanting and well deserved. Its growing popularity as a vacation spot.

Under the surface, Swat is a bit less entrancing. It was not unified until 1917 or formally recognized as autonomous by the British until 1926. The present ruler or Wali has done much to bring the area up to date, but in 1951 there were still only 50 schools and three hospitals to meet the needs of 550,000 people; in 4,000 square miles there were but 375 miles of decent roads, and the state's capital had just gotten its first electricity.

The very fact that they are now building a women's college is evidence of progress in a country where most women have little standing.

8,000 Feet Up
 The other beauty spot, Nathia Gali, was a rugged mountain village 8,000 feet up in the pine-covered mountains looking east toward Kashmir and the Himalayas beyond. We visited it after the season but the proprietor of the Pine Hotel opened it for a night just for us.

A hair-raising 10-mile one-way gravel road leads up to Nathia Gali from the northwest and an only slightly less nerve-racking road leads away from it to the south. Though steep (4,000 ft rise in those 10 miles) the road is well built and safe, provided the driver doesn't get distracted by the scenery.

From the hotel porch we looked west toward pine woods with an occasional southern pine cleared and terraced. The mountains are so steep that the slopes are so steep that the tops of the flat-topped peaks often looked like a continuation of a terrace.

On our morning hike we saw many strange varieties of birds and flowers which gave us the excuse we needed to stop and catch our breath. Most of the birds were on their fall migratory route, we were told, bright red woodpecker types, a blue and white bird with a tail a foot and a half long, and one colored like a gold finch, but the size of a robin. Our identification of the flowers was equally shaky, but we did spot a tiny kind of lady slipper and no one could mistake a tardy wild strawberry.

After two months of jostling and strange crowds it was most satisfying to sit on a rise just above the town, and chat, and look at the scenery.

Looking back five days later and thinking of the whole trip, we realize that every excursion needs moments like this.

WASHINGTON — Upon recommendation of the Democratic leadership in the Senate, I will be attending this week the opening days of the Economic Conference of the American States at Rio de Janeiro.

At this meeting will assemble representatives from most of the nations of the western hemisphere to discuss various indicated programs of mutual economic advancement.

My appointment as a member of the U. S. delegation was initiated by Senator Lyndon Johnson, who is Democratic leader in the Senate. The appointment subsequently was made by the president of the Senate who also named two Republican senators to attend; and an invitation was sent me by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, for himself

 Sometimes it takes 15-20 minutes to get to it.

My bed in the front office, my couch for journalistic meditation, is what I speak of.

Around here lately, I've been nothing but a shuffler, something I thought we'd all given up when we entered the weekly newspaper field.

It's all because Uncle Sam lets too many people mail too much junk too cheaply. Oh, some things of value pass through the mails—my column, checks, magazines, family letters.

But then we have the mail we can get along without, and with my paw snaps to my forehead in respectful salute to all the post office people who have to transmit the stuff to the innocent recipient, for further transmittal to the nearest wastebasket.

Or worse, for transmittal stop my bed when the wastebasket is overflowing.

Scratching around to take a nap the other day, I viewed the overflow from the morning mail. Well, it was pretty fascinating.

There was the unsolicited letter from a printing machinery company, telling us of a bargain in a $7,000 press (I need not say the press was pitched with a graphic shudder by the boss).

There was a red-hot dispatch about a man going to pay the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union a quarter of a million dollars to neutralize the union in labor control.

A sample of rubber bands was enclosed in another letter, same to be tested because they were pure, washed and have long life. Well, the letter was thrown away, but we are testing the rubber bands—presumably eat them to see if they are pure.

The funniest of the lot was a letter to one of the bosses telling him to get a quick by the vesting in a uranium venture located somewhere in Canada.

This letter offered to send all the incisive data on the uranium to be sold at 50 cents a share. That whole letter got thrown out.

Of course, probably somebody once long ago threw out a letter of a new product called Coca-Cola.

But who's to know? Anyhow, I finally got a clear space scratched out of the useless mail on the floor, and took a nap.

I had the oddest dream: It seemed that everybody was fleeing the Glades, running like mad to get away from a gigantic and for President Eisenhower.

NEW HURRICANE FORECASTER ON FORECASTING: Gordon Dunn, who has been assigned to head the Hurricane Warning Service from the central at Miami, writes:

"Progress has been made in hurricane forecasting when we compare our current efforts with those 40 years ago when a hurricane might be followed on the basis of a few sparse reports from the Antilles into the Gulf of Mexico only to have it appear at Bermuda. Even 20 years ago a storm might be encountered by a ship, an advisory would be issued, and then the ships would move out of the storm area and the forecaster would have no further information until the storm approached some land mass. Now airplane reconnaissance is a very helpful aid to forecasters.

Improved forecasting of tropical storms will depend on the development of new techniques which in turn must be based on accurate observations. Data from the middle and upper tropospheric currents in which these storms are imbedded and which to a large extent determine their development is limited and not too accurate. Our upper-air data must be extended and improved."

was about to engulf 'em. The levees hadn't broken, and the canals weren't rising from their banks. According to my dream, all the useless mail had finally overcome and engulfed the boys and girls at the post offices, and was sweeping on through the whole area, threatening us all. Then I woke up and leapt with a yelp from my bed of discarded mail.

DREW PEARSON RIGHT? Last week, Drew Pearson listed Senator Holland with those he predicted might vote for McCarthy when the consure debate is over. We predict otherwise. It looks as though somebody has been reading an old copy of a certain slick magazine that came out a year ago and listed Holland as a friend of McCarthy. Truth is, it isn't so. They have no personal or social contacts, and go with an entirely different crowd here in Washington. Close friends of the Senator know he was secretly irked because of the article in the magazine last year.

Nearest that he and McCarthy ever get together is on the elevator. There, they are sometimes side-by-side, because their offices are across the hall from each other. When a roll

LOOKING INTO THE FACTS...

Dr. H. Ernest Bechtel in an article in FEEDSTUFFS lists the following among major trends affecting the formula feed industry today:

1. Population pressures are increasing, and are creating greater demands for food.
2. Fat supplements, and other secondary products, are being used more widely in livestock rations.
3. Bulk feeds are meeting increasingly greater acceptance.
4. Statistical quality control is gradually taking over the burden of regulating the quality of finished formula feeds.
5. Modern feeds, though made from formulas of increasing complexity, are outperforming their earlier counterparts in economy of ingredients, in efficiency, and in income over feed costs.

"HAPPY BIRTHDAY DEAR WINSTON"

By his birth, as the younger son of a duke, Winston Churchill became "the right honorable" by decree of the Queen he became "Sir Winston" and by acclamation of the English-speaking world he became "Winnie."

Sir Winston Spencer Churchill descends from the Dukes of Marlborough. He was born in Blenheim Palace. His forebear saved England just as he himself was to save England. By his encouragement and foresight he knitted the English-speaking world into a unity the like of which had never existed before and has not come to exist again.

If any man has a key to his being, Sir Winston's key is his cogency of expression, both written and oral. By expressing exactly what he wants to say in the most lucid prose he not only convinces his hearers of the righteousness of causes but incites them to action. He summed up the struggle from 1939 to 1945 in few words: In War: Resolution; In Defeat: Defiance; In Victory: Magnanimity; In Peace: Good Will. To cite another example of simplification without loss of sense, the theme of Volume V of his great six-volume work on World War II is simply: "How Nazi Germany Was Isolated and Assailed on All Sides." Simple, accurate and pictorial.

It is fitting that Sir Winston's 80th birthday should be hailed around the world. On Sunday, Nov. 28, from seven to eight o'clock in the evening, Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co. is presenting "His Finest Hour," consisting of recordings from Churchill's own addresses and speeches, and tributes from leaders here and abroad. Murray Equipment Co., in Belle Glade, local sponsor, has made available the invitation describing the full program.

All who hear the comfortable words which Churchill used to encourage the English people, and the vituperative words he used to exorcise the common enemy, and the words of exhortation to push on to final victory will relive a moment in history.

Winston Churchill in New York in 1946 expressed the conviction of many when he said: "I have never asked for an Anglo-American military alliance or treaty. I asked for something different and in a sense I asked for something more. I asked for fraternal association, free, voluntary, fraternal association. I have no doubt that it will come to pass as surely as the sun will rise tomorrow. But you do not need a treaty to express mutual affinities and friendship which arise in a fraternal association. . . . Nothing can prevent our nations drawing ever closer . . . in their harmonious companionship lies the main hope of a world instrument for maintaining peace on earth and good-will to all men."

A variety called "Big Joe" has been found prolific and the article says that "even in bad years, growers are usually able to harvest profitably." Last year about 15,000 acres were grown of this tropical hybrid.

Migrant Housing In Tampa Story

Glades facilities for housing migrants, under the housing act of 1942, were given this week as good examples in contrast to squalid conditions now existing for migrants at Immokalee.

In a full-scale story climaxing a series on the wretched situation at Immokalee, Reporter-Photographer Sam Mase, in the Nov. 21 Tampa Tribune, contrasted Belle Glade's Osceola Community to the sordidness of Immokalee's facilities.

Citing the fact that both Belle Glade and Pahokee's best migrant housing facilities came from the federal government, and that similar aid is not now available, Mase said that the 1955 Legislature may help to correct conditions at Immokalee.

Speaker-Elect Ted David of the state House of Representatives plans to appoint Rep.-Elect Emmett Roberts, of Belle Glade, executive director of the Belle Glade Housing Authority, as a key man in the legislative investigation of migratory housing conditions, Mase's story said.

The story was illustrated with contrasting pictures of Osceola Community and matching "facilities" at Immokalee. Manager G. L. Connell of Osceola toured the reporter through the Belle Glade housing. There, Mase found a charge of $10 for two-bedroom homes with flush toilets, while at Immokalee, a one-room hut with no running water and no toilet rents for $12 a week. Other available living space and rental thereon was contrasted accordingly.

Highway Use Meeting Thurs.

ORLANDO — A state-wide meeting to develop plans to insure a progressive program of highway development for Florida was announced this week by S. O. Chase, Jr., Sanford, chairman of Project Adequate Roads Committee of the Florida Highway Users Conference. The conference will be held in Orlando on Thursday, Dec. 2, at the San Juan Hotel at 2 p.m.

Featured speakers at the meeting will be Arthur C. Butler, Washington, D. C., director of the National Highway Users Conference, and Sen. George Tapper, Port St. Joe, chairman of the Select Committee on Roads of the Legislative Council.

The Adequate Roads Committee was organized by the Florida Highway Users Conference last August to provide a common meeting ground for all the organizations which favor proper and judicious use of highway funds and improved and more efficient practices in highway administration. More than 100 trade associations, clubs, Chambers of Commerce, and cooperatives have endorsed the program.

Sen. Tapper is scheduled to present the recommendations of the Legislative Council for improved highway administration. Butler will discuss current highway problems of Florida in relation to other states. A considerable portion of the program will be devoted to the consideration of the reorganization of the Florida State Road Department recently recommended by the Legislative Council.

The Mothers' Club of the Pahokee Elks Weavers Chorus donated approximately $50 in rummage sale last Saturday and rummage on hand additional rummage. Mrs. R. F. Hurt was in charge of the sale.

Weddings and Engagements

Guy-Andes Vows Taken Saturday

First Methodist Church of Pahokee was the scene of the wedding Saturday afternoon, Nov. 29 at 4 o'clock, of Miss Patricia Guy and John Guy Andes, Jr., both of Jacksonville.

Vows of the impressive single ring ceremony, read by the bride's father, Dr. Rember A. Guy, pastor of the church, were exchanged before an altar banked with palms, and baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums. White tapers in double cathedral candelabra were lighted by Robert Harry and Michael MacKenzie, of Tampa, nephews of the bride. The pews were marked with white satin bows centered with white chrysanthemums.

Jack Guy, of Atlanta, Ga., brother of the bride, was organist and played selections from Bach, Greg, Flor Peeters, Karg-Elert and Marcel Dupre. He also accompanied Mrs. Hugh H. Blach, soprano, who sang, "Promises, My Love," "O Perfect Love," and played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, George W. Erickson, of Tampa, wore a waltz-length gown of white nylon tulle over bridal satin, fastened with astringent white Alencon lace. The fitted bodice, designed with a Queen Anne's collar, was fastened with pearls, with tiny self-covered buttons and the long, light-fitting sleeves formed deep points over her hands. The full skirt and train lined in pearl scallops. Her three tiered length veil of French illusion fell from a satin coronet covered with seed pearls and sequins. In her shoe, the bride wore a lucky slipper which was sent to her seven years ago from an island in the Pacific to be used for this occasion. She carried a colonial bouquet of tuberoses and lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid on a background of English ivy leaves. Her only ornament was a necklace of white gold with a heart-shaped pendant of aquamarine.

Mr. George W. Erickson, of Tampa, attended her sister. Her gown was of American Beauty velvet and designed with a scalloped portrait neckline. The bodice, pointed at the front and back, was fitted to a full waltz-length skirt. Her Juliet cap was of matching velvet and her bouquet was of pink carnations combined with pink tulle covered-satin leaves. The bridegroom was attended by his father, John Wilbur Andes, Jr., of Knoxville, Tenn., as best man. The ushers were Charles Powell, of Knoxville, and Dr. Samuel C. Tatum, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Guy, the bride's mother, wore an aqua lace gown of waltz length with a fitted jacket. Her sequin hat and shoes were of matching shade, and her corsage was a purple orchid and an orchid corsage.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Frank Friend and Mrs. Lloyd Hundley greeted the guests and presented them to the receiving line.

Mrs. A. D. Beverly and Mrs. E. L. Pope presided at the bride's table, which was covered with an imported hand-appliqued embroidered white or-gandy cloth over pastel green. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a cluster of wedding bells and lilies of the valley tied with white satin ribbon. At either end of the table silver candelabra held white tapers centered with epergnettes of white pom-poms and mallow.

Mrs. R. F. Hurt and Mrs. Dun-can Padgett served punch from a table in the living room. Mrs. Leo Maxwell and Mrs. Robert J. Schroeder served at the punch table in the patio and were assisted by Misses Cynthia Friend, Alyce Joyce Spencer, Ann Rita

Burns, Judy Murphy, Nancy Thomas, Judy Cunningham, Jill McIlwain and Faith Sasser. Mrs. Sidney Davis of Fort Myers had charge of the bride's book.

Others assisting with the reception were Mrs. John T. Pickett, Jr., Mrs. J. M. Elliott, Mrs. L. W. Armstrong, Mrs. Clyde A. Canipe, Mrs. Jack A. Phillips, Mrs. A. J. Spencer, Mrs. L. M. Blair, Mrs. H. J. Anderson and Mrs. John A. Dulany.

Immediately following the reception the bridal couple departed for a wedding trip to include Key West and New York City. Mrs. Andes, Jr. chose for travel a suit of charcoal gray wool. Her hat and accessories were of champagne and her corsage a white orchid. The couple will be at home after Dec. 15 at 3582 Medford St., Avondale, Jacksonville.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Kallath, of Jacksonville, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Davis, Fort Myers; Mr. and Mrs. James McKelvey, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. James B. Hughes, of Miami.

National President Is Surprise BPW Guest

The surprise visit of the national president of the Business & Professional Women's Club, Miss Margaret Rawalt, of Washington, D. C., was the highlight of the District 8 meeting, with Belle Glade and Pahokee BPW clubs as joint hostesses, Sunday.

Miss Rawalt was introduced by Miss Bette Lou Pickett of Pahokee. She commented on the beauty of Florida and the new BPW home which will be maintained in Washington, D. C. She recognized Miss Elizabeth Sutton, of Belle Glade, migrant research supervisor, as being the first "Christmas card" member. At the convention in St. Louis this summer, the national president stated that the best Christmas present she could receive would be Christmas cards from members, giving her the names of new BPW members. She received a Christmas card in August from Miss Sara Lee Green, giving her the name of Miss Sutton, who was the first Christmas Card member.

The meeting, which was held at the Municipal Country Club in Belle Glade, opened with registration at 10 a.m. A workshop was conducted by Mrs. Esther Poppell, state chairman of legislation, and a practicing lawyer, from Miami. The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Lloyd Royce, district director, from Lake Worth. At this meeting, Mrs. Royce outlined the members and the steps necessary to present and get a bill passed in the legislature. District club presidents gave reports on the local activities.

At 1 p.m. a luncheon was served consisting of barbecued chicken, and Glades area restaurants. Mrs. Johnnie Davis, president of the Pahokee club, was mistress of ceremonies. In recognition of Mrs. Davis, Tommy Lee Bufoe, Miss Bana Rodriguez, president of the Belle Glade club, presented the welcome address. Mrs. Myrtle Graham, past director of District 8, offered the response. A trio from Pahokee, Misses Joyce Lindstrom, Sedie Clifton and Marcia Jean Guthrie, directed by Miss Margaret Powell, presented two vocal selections. Pianist was Miss Rose Marie Henderson. Mrs. Jack A. Phillip did a number of magic tricks.

The principal speaker was Mrs. Poppell. She talked of the tremendous progress made in the Glades area since she first saw it in 1920, stating that it is "truly the vegetable basket of the world." Mrs. Poppell also touched on the subject of women participating in the government of the country through the legislature.

The entertainment, invitations and favors were provided by the Pahokee Club and the preparation and serving of the food, cleaning up and decorations, by the Belle Glade Club. Mrs. Walter Thames was food chairman. Helping in the kitchen were Mrs. Anne Quinn, Mrs. Audrey Jones, Mrs. Bessie Mulberg, Mrs. Maribelle Rawls and Mrs. Ceiba Caruthers. Mrs. Florence Powell had charge of the table arrangements and flowers, and assisting her were Mrs. Anita Wells and Miss Rodriguez. Mrs. Mary Fox assisted in securing flowers. Waitresses were Mrs. Betty Jean Caruthers, Miss Mary Lou Davis, Mrs. Julia Durance, Mrs. Wells, treasurer of the club, took up tickets at the door.

American Legion Auxiliary Sends Joy Shop Gifts

The South Bay American Legion Auxiliary has completed plans to send "Joy Shop" gifts to three veterans hospitals in Florida — Bay Pines, the hospital at Lake City, and Pratt General at Coral Gables.

Each member is asked to make a contribution to the annual Joy Shop so the veterans who are not able to go shopping may shop for members of their families without cost to them. They will have a cart to take the gifts to those unable to go to the gift shop. In turn the Volunteer Sunshine Workers will wrap it and get it in the mail in time to reach his home before Christmas. Gifts of tooth brushes, paste and wash-cloths are being prepared by auxiliary members for those in wheel chairs.

The Halloween Carnival chairman, Mrs. J. C. Bowen, reported $37.25 cleared on pies, cakes and coffee booth, which money was turned over to the PTA.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

The schools of America are now beginning another year in the preparation of the new generation to become citizens, workers, leaders and friends or enemies in a world of strife and confusion. Children must be taught the basic reading, writing and arithmetic, but they must also be taught to think, understand and act. They should be taught the difference between right and wrong. They need to discover what is worth defending in our American way of life, and what must be changed or avoided in order to achieve higher material and spiritual standards. They must learn of God.

What kind of adults these young people will become depends on the many phases of this teaching and on the multiple daily influences in their lives. Their character and the future of the nation—possibly the future of the world—depend on the quality of the beliefs, the understanding and the teachings of all of us as religious, moral and cultural guides. Teachers have a great responsibility for tomorrow, but so do parents, friends, business men, politicians, religious leaders and all the rest of us.

We must teach our children to honor the way we live, to believe in and honor God above all institutions including the state. We must teach initiative, self-reliance and the value of honest work as we have not emphasized these factors in the recent past.

One phase of the educational process should receive far greater emphasis than heretofore. Very seriously we must strive to give satisfying answers to the myriad questions asked of us by these young seekers for knowledge. Too often we have answered questions with "I don't know" or "I don't know." We have not always known the answers, but we have evaded the questions.

Questions we have laughed at for our children for their queries. Is it any wonder that many youths have lost faith in their elders and their advisers? Is it any wonder that youth has become prey for subversive influences? Our enemies have ready answers wrong, to be sure, but given with such seriousness, confidence and emphasis as to impress youth.

We must formulate and elaborate our true answers with confidence and power and equip the young seekers to fashion a tomorrow that will be better than today.

BUILDING AMERICA'S SECURITY

For every jet airplane delivered to the U.S. military forces each day in 1949, America's aircraft industry is delivering five today.

In 1949, the U.S. Air Force had no jet bomber wings. Today's medium bomber wings are almost completely jet equipped and all of the Air force fighter wings have been converted to jet propulsion.

With 127 cases of TB discovered in Palm Beach County this year, the association is in need of funds for prevention and treatment of the disease that costs $15,000 for each case. The local sale has found a cure and urges that TB be prevented, yet 40 million persons in the United States may be infected, it is estimated. Contributions in finance, education, X-ray, research and patient services, Davis said.

All Residents In On 'S-D Day'

Issuing an appeal to all residents of Palm Beach County to prevent traffic accidents on Safe Driving Day, Dec. 15, Lake Loyal, chairman of the county commission said the challenge of highway safety is one that must be met on rural roads as well as urban streets.

Roads outside the incorporated limits of cities and villages may be the proving ground where the success of S-D Day is decided, Loyal said.

The Commission on Monday adopted a proclamation which set Dec. 15 as S-D Day in the county and urged motorists to take every precaution on that day and every other day to avoid accidents on the highway. S-D Day, which is being sponsored by President Eisenhower's Action Committee for Traffic Safety in cooperation with public officials and numerous national organizations, has as its objective the elimination of all traffic accidents by the end of the year. The purpose is to demonstrate that the solution to the traffic problem is within the grasp of any community, with its citizens willing to accept their responsibilities as drivers and pedestrians.

Motorists and pedestrians in Palm Beach County can assure the success of S-D Day locally by doing these three things, Loyal said:

First, observe the letter and the spirit of all traffic regulations;

Second, be courteous to every other motorist—practice sportsmanship;

Third, give full attention to driving and walking.

22 MILLION POUNDS OF TURKEY COBBLED

Floridian visitors to the state will have eaten an estimated 22,300,000 pounds of turkey this year by the end of the holiday season, but production within the state will meet only about one-sixth of this market, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce said recently. Starting off the year with 34,000 birds, Florida turkey raisers have produced birds to total about 3,550,000 pounds for sale and farm consumption during 1954. This week's business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division points to this year's production as some nine per cent above 1953 in volume. Sales of Florida raised birds last year reached $1,162,000 and farm consumption added $90,000 to this amount.

Florida producers cannot well compete with certain of the larger feed-surplus states, but the gap between year-round consumption and production holds promise for expansion of the state's turkey industry, according to the C of C.

will have to come in regular meeting of the City Commission, it was determined.

Good Fiscal Shape The meeting between Carle and the Commission followed immediately after the regular Commission meeting in which William Rhodes, city auditor, presented an audit of the city fiscal condition. The audit showed that in the past year the city's financial position was excellent.

Revenues increased, expenses diminished, and there was a $44,000 excess in the water department fund and more than $47,000 surplus in the general fund. Rhodes suggested that the water surplus be put at interest—possibly used to buy up water department bonds. Additional city employees, with a redistribution of duties among them, was suggested by Rhodes and parallel actions previously devised by the commission. In this regard ordinances were passed on first reading providing for a separation of the city clerk's duties from those of tax assessor, tax collector and clerk of the municipal court. The sense of the ordinance is that City Clerk Frank Anderson may perform any one or all of these duties or have assistants without further commission action. A fiscal officer, recommended by Carle and by Rhodes, was not immediately provided for.

Negro Center Mrs. Amelia Houston, representing the Civic League, presented plans for a colored community center and asked city aid in its construction. Mayor Rabin will appoint a committee of commissioners to have plans drawn and bids advertised so that a starting point can be reached for further fiscal action. It was pointed out by Commissioner Ashley and agreed to by the commissioners, that any such project would have to have the support of the city government to succeed.

In other actions the City Commission:

PAID bills from the general fund totaling $1,030.15 and from the water fund $855.50;

GRANTED $100 from the welfare fund to the Migrant Advisory Committee;

PAID Joe Murphy for street repairs with the proviso that Murphy be asked to discount the bill;

RESOLVED to pave the area surrounding the loading ramp, cost to be $2,646.89;

DENIED the city engineer a transit until after Jan. 1 at which time the request may be heard again;

GRANTED proprietors of the Cotton Club permission to use park service on the premises pending outcome of a suit between the proprietors and owners of the building; and RENEWED beer and wine license for Mrs. Frances P. Rulledge pending approval of location by building inspector, sanitarian and chief of police.

BI-PARTISAN—

not they wish to be blanketed under the social security amendments, and urged those in agriculture who do not wish to participate to make their voices heard at Washington hearings. In outlining procedures relative to bills before Congress, Rogers said that he would be glad to get a hearing before the appropriate committee for anyone with a point of view. Referring to the social security question, he stressed that farmers must comply after January 1st, but that on the 15th, when farmers make their reports they might well consider asking Congress, then back in session, to allow them to be deleted from social security provisions. As a case in point, he cited doctors and dentists who received permission to withdraw from coverage.

In answer to a question put by O. B. McClure, Rogers said that the whole question of children under 16 picking beans after school would have to be worked out and that he did not hazard an "off the cuff" answer.

Rogers told of his work to outlaw the Communist party through making it impossible for Communists to hide behind the Fifth Amendment. He also cited his Resolution 893 which was passed only after he got both houses of Congress unanimously to agree that tax money should not be used to pay 11 American Communist sympathizers damages awarded them after they were fired from the UN.

Lion President Ralph O. Johnson, president over the joint meeting and Jess Elliott introduced the Congressman.

MATH—

The cost of a new light, well over $200, gave Councilmen some pause, but Meredith moved to purchase the light, saying "It is better we get this light now than to try to remedy the situation after somebody gets hurt or killed there." The motion was passed.

Approval was given to a motion to instruct Engineer John T. Pickett to go ahead on mapping grades for the sidewalk and street program on Annona, Banyan, and Cypress Aves. between Second and Fourth Sts. subject to approval of Council. Pickett, following considerable conflict with Council on street and sidewalk grades last spring, has said he will work on an hourly or daily rate to lay out the grades subject to Council revision, assuming no further responsibility for final grades.

Other Actions In other actions, Council:

WARNED water users that under the new water bill, bill count of 10 percent, water bills paid by users must be postmarked no later than the 10th of each month they are due; RECEIVED no bids for water works supplies;

DECIDED that the Parks Department will decorate two existing trees for Christmas, one in Loxa Park, one in City Park, and will ask the Garden Club for assistance in the decoration;

AUTHORIZED purchase of three more strings of Christmas lights for street decoration;

AUTHORIZED the drawing up of a resolution asking the Air Force to make Palm Beach Air Force Base a permanent installation;

APPOINTED Chairman Parent to confer with Parent-Teacher Association officials to see what recommendations they would make on "comic" book control throughout the city;

AMENDED its prior motion locating the proposed public health center adjacent to Everglades Memorial Hospital to a site at the rear of the property.
